Teaching/Learning Methodology (Note 3)	1. e-Learning Module The e-learning module is developed and delivered by the Office of Service-learning at PolyU. The module consists of readings, exercises and assessments that are related to the basic concept and practice of service-learning. Students are required to successfully complete the e-learning module within the first four weeks after the commencement of the subject. 2. Discipline-Specific Lectures and Workshops Lectures are structured to convey the knowledge and skills specific to expressive textile arts. Interactive studio sessions will be conducted to encourage discussions and practical exploration of the skills and techniques required in the context of art and design. 3. Project-Specific Seminars and Workshops The project-specific seminars and workshops are designed to develop students’ understanding of the targeted service recipients and other issues related to the service-learning project. Trainings in planning and delivering the service project for students will be provided. Experts will also be invited to share their valuable experience of service-learning as appropriate.

Students are required to attend all of the discipline-specific and project-specific lectures, seminars and workshops, and successfully complete the required assignments prior to participating in the service project.

4. Service-learning Project

The service-learning projects are designed to develop students' practical skills of developing expressive textile arts together with the service recipients, who are people with special needs, such as underprivileged children and women, single parents, ex-mentally ill persons, etc.. The students will gain basic skills and techniques of creating expressive textile arts and its applications for contemporary fashion. Finally, they will co-design and co-develop expressive textile artworks with the service recipients and a photography session will be arranged to record all of the artworks.

The subject will be offered twice in each academic year. The schedules are as follows:

For the course offered in Semester 1+2 (Overseas):

The discipline-related lectures/workshops and project-specific seminars/workshops plus review tutorials will be covered in Semester 1. The planned duration of the overseas service delivery will be 7 days in early to mid January. Students will be expected to spend 40 hours in 5 days in direct contact with the recipients. A styling presentation with photo-shooting sessions will be conducted as part of the service rendering and the service recipients will model their own expressive textile artworks during the presentation.

For the course offered in Semester 2+3 (HKSAR):

The discipline-related lectures/workshops and project-specific seminars/workshops plus review tutorials will be covered in Semester 2. The planned duration of the local service delivery will be 5 weeks during Summer term. Students will be expected to spend 40 hours in 5 weeks in direct contact with the recipients.

The photo records of artworks developed overseas and the actual artworks developed locally will be jointly presented in a mini fashion show and/or static exhibition in Hong Kong during summer term. In the case of a mini fashion show, the local service recipients will model their own expressive textile artworks and their personal expressions and inner confidences can be further encouraged.

5. Reflective Journals and Report, and Review Tutorials

	Students will be required to write reflective journals and reports both during and after the service-learning project to demonstrate their ability to: (a) link their service-learning experiences with the academic focus/discipline-specific content of the subject, (b) reflect on their service-learning experience to identify their learning gains as well as areas for future improvements, (c) reflect on their roles and social responsibilities.

To guide students in using reflection as a tool for learning, and to assess their ability in achieving the above learning objectives, reflection and review tutorials will also be held both during and after the service-learning project.

Assessment Methods in Alignment with Intended Learning Outcomes

(Note 4)

Students' performance in this subject will be assessed using a letter-grading system in accordance with the University's convention from grade F (failure) to A+. The relative weighting of the different assessment components are as follows:

Specific assessment methods/tasks	% weighting	Intended subject learning outcomes to be assessed (Please tick as appropriate)
e-Learning Module and Project-specific seminars and workshops	10%	√			√
Group Performance in rendering service	20%	√	√	√	√	√
Individual Performance in rendering service	20%	√	√	√	√	√
Quality of the deliverable	20%	√	√	√	√	√
Reflective journal and report	30%	√	√	√	√
Total	100 %

Explanation of the appropriateness of the assessment methods in assessing the intended learning outcomes:

The e-Learning Module and Project-specific seminars/workshops will include assignments and learning tasks that are designed to assess students' ability to link service-learning with the academic content of the subject of expressive textile arts (ILO a), and their understanding of their role and responsibilities in society (ILO d).

The students' attitude and performance in the rendering of service, their degree of engagement with the service recipients, their collaboration with other students, and interactions with the service recipients and/or collaborating NGOs are obviously indicators of their ability to communicate effectively in a wider community (ILO c), their sense of civic responsibility, (ILO d) and their empathy for needy people (ILO e), and their ability to work collaboratively to apply their knowledge and skills to deal with real problems in the service setting (ILO a & b).

The quality of the deliverable including expressive textile artworks and styling presentation or mini-fashion and/or static exhibition will reflect

	the students’ understanding of the discipline-specific concepts (ILOs a &amp; b), and their role and responsibilities as a professional (ILO d), their ability to communicate effectively and empathise with their service recipients (ILOs c &amp; e). Students’ reflective journals and report, and their presentations and discussions during the reflection will testify to the students’ reflection on their learning experience, and the breadth and depth of their learning. This assesses their ability to link service-learning and the academic content of the subject, expressive textile arts (ILO a, b &amp; c), and their ability to reflect on their role and responsibilities in the society (ILO d). The reasonable use of GenAI tools is deemed acceptable. Students are required to declare the use of GenAI in their work and reference them in accordance with accepted academic conventions.

Note 1: Intended Learning Outcomes

Intended learning outcomes should state what students should be able to do or attain upon completion of the subject. Subject outcomes are expected to contribute to the attainment of the overall programme outcomes.

Note 2: Subject Synopsis/ Indicative Syllabus

The syllabus should adequately address the intended learning outcomes. At the same time over-crowding of the syllabus should be avoided.

Note 3: Teaching/Learning Methodology

This section should include a brief description of the teaching and learning methods to be employed to facilitate learning, and a justification of how the methods are aligned with the intended learning outcomes of the subject.

Note 4: Assessment Method

This section should include the assessment method(s) to be used and its relative weighting, and indicate which of the subject intended learning outcomes that each method purports to assess. It should also provide a brief explanation of the appropriateness of the assessment methods in assessing the intended learning outcomes.
