| Subject Code   | APSS331  |
|----------------|--|
| Subject Title  | Management in Human Services   |
| Credit Value   | 3  |
| Pre-requisite/ | Nil  |
| Co-requisite/  |  |
| Exclusion      |  |
| Objectives     | This subject aims to introduce students the characteristics and functionsof human service organizations in assisting and empowering individuals ofdifferent age groups, families and communities to function better. It helpsstudents understand the core knowledge and skills related to human servicemanagement such as strategic planning, effective leadership andmotivation, as well as the strategies of setting organizational directions andmanaging resources and programmes. This subject will equip students withanalytical skills to analyze the impact of the changing socio-politicalcontexts on the development of human service management in Hong Kong,and let students be aware of the importance of enhancing organizationalsustainability with innovation in the changing environment. |