“One from Hundred Thousand” Season 4: Intergenerational Play Space • 2019.07.06

Remember the feeling of never wanting to leave the playground? When was the last time you played with somebody outside your generation? What are your desires for an ideal play space? The benefits of play space to everyone’s physical and mental well-being has remained important, if not more important, than ever before. If you want to take part in reimagining the design and management of public play spaces for people of all ages, join us at the co-creation workshops and symposium on “Intergenerational Play Space”.

“One from Hundred Thousand” Season 3: Education for a Complex Future • 2019.04.13

Under the radical changes in our society, this symposium focused on how education can prepare students for a future that no one could predict. Ms Liza Chong (CEO of INDEX: Design to Improve Life®) and Dr Henry Ma (Associate Dean, School of Design, PolyU) are invited to share with audiences the challenges for global citizens in the 21st Century and Creativity and Design Thinking in Education respectively. Besides, representatives from 3 international technology companies, Alibaba Cloud, Amazon Web Services and Microsoft Hong Kong Limited, will share their views on future talents with competencies to face disruptive changes. 8 local educators will also introduce their local actions of education innovation.

Co-creation Workshop for Secondary School Educators Completed

In March this year, we organised 3 co-creation workshops for secondary school educators. 62 educators re-imagined new teaching models together with designers, to infuse social innovation and design into learning different subjects. Outcomes of the workshops will be showcased during "Education in a Complex Future" Symposium and Exhibition
Exhibition Details: 13-20 April 2019 | 10:00am to 6:00pm | 3/F, Jockey Club Innovation Tower, PolyU

Snapshots

Innovating Green Retail Solutions by Students

130 participants | 20 retailers | 34 ideas

JCDISI together with Hong Kong Retail Management Association organized the first HK Green Retail Hackathon in February 2019, to bring retailers and young people together to develop ideas that can be applied in retail shops to promote customers' awareness and environmental-friendly practices. The Champion, Foodiverse founded by 2 PolyU students with 2 teammates, wins them $30K cash prize and various practical opportunities including UK Workcamp, mentoring and internship programme. And-Joy (樂用) received the DBS Impact Award as winner in the startup track.

Transitional Social Housing Stakeholder and Public Consultation

Organized by DISI, several sessions of stakeholder and public consultations were held to get valuable feedback from interested NGO operators, industry professionals and members of the public between March and April. The comments will be used to further develop the preliminary design proposals put forward by each sites' architectural consultants (C-Lab and WSP for Ma Wan, Ronald Lu & Partners for Sham Shui Po and Stanley). See photos from our stakeholder consultation sessions with the link.

"Empathizing with Sanitation Workers" Workshop

Continuing with the theme of cleaners' working conditions in "One from Hundred Thousand" Symposium Season 2, the workshop sessions included site-visiting to the current refuse collection points, conversation with sanitation workers, street sanitation workers' work try-out, and sharings by different units who are familiar with waste management and sanitation workers' right issues. Based on the needs of the sanitation workers, the ideas from the participants will be collected and contributed to the design layout proposal for the Hung Shui Kiu Waste Collection Point.
